

The WV Department of Environmental Protection &
The Center for Watershed Protection present two FREE workshops

Stormwater Runoff Reduction Spreadsheet Tool Training

The Center for Watershed Protection recently developed a spreadsheet tool for the WVDEP to aid in appropriately sizing runoff reduction stormwater management practices. The spreadsheet tool will allow users to ascertain and verify compliance with the provisions of the MS4 permit to reduce runoff from the first one inch of rainfall. These workshops will provide training to attendees on how to use the spreadsheet. The (Microsoft Excel) spreadsheet is specifically developed to allow accounting of runoff reduction practices and provide for the allowed incentives described in the permit. If you have a laptop computer – please bring it!

There will be a brief introduction of appropriate BMP's and their specifications.

Your instructors for both workshops are Joe Battiata, P.E. and Greg Hoffman, P.E. of the Center for Watershed Protection. Each day and a half workshop will present the same material and information.

Engineers, stormwater BMP designers, stormwater managers, consultants, and others interested in runoff reduction practices of stormwater management will find this workshop beneficial and are encouraged to attend. This is not basic or beginning MS4 training. The training is not limited to those communities who are MS4's. CSO communities can also benefit from this training.

An agenda is forthcoming.

Tuesday and Wednesday, August 17 & 18th, 2010 at St. Mary's Center for Education in Huntington, WV.

Tuesday and Wednesday, September 28 & 29th, 2010 at the Bridgeport Conference Center in Bridgeport, WV.

Coffee and a light breakfast will be provided in the morning on both days. (Please note: NO food or beverage is permitted in the classroom at the Huntington location.)

Lunch is on your own. We will be finished by 1:00pm on the second day. Certificates of attendance will be provided at the end of the workshop on the second day. Only those who attend the entire workshop will receive a certificate.
